

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

CIVIL CASES.

During the past two years this office has instituted actions in behalf of the state, or defended actions instituted against the state or some of its officers, to the number of 1,083. In addition thereto there were pending cases instituted during the year 1912 amounting to 438, making a total number of civil cases engaging the attention of this office during the past two years of 1,521. Of this number of civil cases, we have finally disposed of 548 cases. A large percentage of the civil cases have been actions instituted by this office for the collection of taxes due the state upon the assessment of corporation franchises by the State Board of Equalization. Of these cases there were 1,041, out of which number we have brought to a conclusion and judgment for the state 436 cases, thereby collecting and remitting to the State Controller the sum of $10,745.71 in cash, and securing in addition thereto judgments in behalf of the state amounting to $24,578.42 which is in course of collection.

In 11 cases instituted to recover taxes paid to the state, the plaintiffs have prevailed, obtaining judgment for a refund in said cases to the amount of $36,466.37. As against the judgments thus obtained by certain of the plaintiffs, the state is entitled to a credit on account of the reassessment of the franchise of the corporation plaintiff, which reassessment was made by the State Board of Equalization subsequent to the rendition of such judgments. I will treat these particular cases under another heading.

CORPORATION LICENSE TAX AND FILING FEE STATUTES.

In my report to you under date of September 15, 1912, this subject was commented upon, and by reason of developments since that time in the litigation concerning the subject matter, some further comment seems pertinent and proper.

In 1911, the Supreme Court in the case of H. K. Mulford Company vs. Curry, 163 Cal. 276, declared the corporation license tax and filing fee statutes unconstitutional, in so far as they applied to corporations, any portion of whose business or property lay outside the state. Thus broadly interpreted the decision included practically all foreign and domestic corporations. The state was thereby threatened with a loss of revenue which averaged about one million dollars a year. This office immediately applied for a rehearing of the case in an endeavor to obtain a limitation upon the rule expressed in this case but failed to secure the same. Much litigation has since ensued by way of suits for writs of mandate, writs of injunction and suits to recover fees paid under protest. In none of these suits has a final judgment been obtained against the state, and notwithstanding the claimed unconstitutionality of these statutes practically the whole normal revenue therefrom has been collected to date.

In the cases of Albert Pick & Company vs. Frank C. Jordan, and Melville Clark Piano Company vs. Frank C. Jordan, the question of the validity of the corporation license tax and filing fee statutes has again been presented to our Supreme Court, the contention of the state being that the same are mere excise taxes. A favorable decision is expected in these cases for the reason that while the same have been pending and since the decision in Mulford vs. Curry, the Supreme Court of the United States and the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, Montana and Utah have rendered decisions in line with our contention.

TAX LITIGATION.

During the past three years this office has been compelled to institute 1,041 cases, as hereinbefore mentioned, against foreign corporations, and the trustees of defunct domestic corporations, to collect the tax levied upon the franchises of such corporations by the State Board of Equalization and the inadequacies of the present statute providing for the collection of this tax taken in conjunction with the difficulties experienced in endeavoring to collect the same through the medium of the courts, would seem to suggest a change in the method of collection of this tax upon corporate franchises. The difficulties of collecting the tax through the medium of litigation to which I refer consist principally in the inability to locate any property of the corporation after its charter has been forfeited for non-payment of the tax. Under the statute, unless the tax is paid by the assessed corporation prior to the Saturday preceding the first Monday in March of the year succeeding the levy of the tax, the charter of such corporation is forfeited and its directors become trustees for the purpose of winding up its affairs. A large percentage of these corporations have no property to which the lien of the tax may attach, and for this reason it would appear that taxes upon the corporate franchise should be collected immediately upon the levy of the same in some manner similar to that which is provided for the collection of personal property taxes. Such a method would not only secure to the state the revenue to which it is entitled but would avoid considerable costly litigation, some of which can never be successful, and would also do away with the forfeiture of many corporate franchises which if not forfeited for non-payment of taxes would remain existent and subject to taxation in succeeding years.

TIDELAND LITIGATION.

In my report to you two years ago I referred, at page 6, under the heading "San Pedro Harbor Cases," to the then pending litigation involving the law respecting tidelands of the state, and reviewed the course of this litigation to the date of that report. That report showed these cases, some ten in number, involving the legality of patents which theretofore had been granted by the state to the tidelands surrounding San Pedro harbor, and to practically the whole of the bed of Wilmington Bay, to be then pending on appeal in the Supreme Court of the state. These cases were decided on December 20, 1913, and the decisions are found in Volume 166, California Reports, beginning at page 576. In that report it was stated:

We have endeavored through this litigation to gain for the state an affirmation of the principle that the state holds title to tidelands, as well as to the lands covered by the inland navigable waters, in trust for all the inhabitants of the state, and that the inhabitants have the right of access to, and use of, such lands for the purposes of navigation, commerce, and fishery. In short, that the state holds the title in trust for the people, who are the beneficiaries of such trust, and that the state may not, by conveyance or otherwise, destroy the trust property, or deprive the people of its beneficial use.

The decisions rendered by the Supreme Court in deciding these cases sustained our contentions in every particular, except that the court held, in effect, that it was within the power of the legislature of the state to convey by specific grant particularly defined areas of tidelands, which, in the judgment of the legislature, are not required for the purposes of commerce, navigation or fisheries. The decisions establish the doctrine that no title to tidelands is conveyed by patents purporting to have been issued under the general acts for the disposition of swamp and overflowed salt, marsh, or tidelands now found in the Political Code.

Prior to 1872 the legislature of the state, through several different acts, provided for the segregation, platting, and sale of a large portion of the water frontage of San Francisco Bay, and, in accordance with these several acts much of the water front of this bay passed into private ownership. The legality of these particular grants was not before the court in the litigation here referred to, but the decisions rendered in those cases clearly show that it is the judgment of the court that these grants are valid, and not now open to attack. With this exception these decisions have uniform application to the tidelands of the state, and put at rest for all time, I believe, the law applicable thereto.

An appeal from one of these judgments has been taken by writ of error to the Supreme Court of the United States where it is now pending. It is not believed, however, that the Supreme Court of the United States will interfere with the construction given to purely local statutes by the Supreme Court of the state.

As bearing upon this matter, my report of two years ago referred to the condemnation suits involving approximately one hundred and twenty-five lots adjoining India Basin in San Francisco harbor brought by the State Board of Harbor Commissioners pursuant to the act of the legislature found in the statutes of 1909 at pages 711 and 713, respectively, and suggested that action in these cases be delayed until the decision by the court of the San Pedro harbor cases. In accordance with that suggestion action was so delayed, but since the decision of these cases these actions have gone forward in accordance with the law as announced in the decisions.

LAND LITIGATION.

Under this head in my last report I referred to many actions pending, involving state school and lieu lands. I am pleased to report that these actions have been decided favorably to the state. By decision recently rendered by the District Court of Appeal, First District, the action of the Surveyor General in refusing to file or approve applications involving some four hundred thousand acres of school and lieu lands was approved, and these lands may now be used in accordance with the provisions of the so-called Thompson Act. A rehearing in these cases was denied by the Supreme Court of the state, and the law applicable to the facts involved in these cases may be taken as settled by the decisions of the District Court of Appeal.

OPINIONS.

During the period of this biennial report this office has rendered 468 formal written opinions which bear serial number, and over 3,000 letters of advice preserved as records in the office but without serial number. In addition thereto, we have examined all contracts entered into by the state for various purposes, and also the abstracts of title and proceedings leading to the issuance of bonds prior to the purchase thereof by the state.

JUDGMENTS RENDERED AND COMPANIES THEREAFTER REASSESSED.

Under this head are noted certain judgments rendered against the state for taxes illegally assessed and recovered after trial. In each case the franchise of such company was thereafter reassessed by the State Board of Equalization, thus reducing the gross sum of the judgments to the net figure shown. The judgments, however, should be repaid in full, as under the reassessment act the tax due the state upon a reassessment must be paid in the same manner as an original assessment.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

One matter that has come to our attention recently prompts us to recommend the enactment of statutes that will hereafter guard the state against fraudulent initiative, referendum, and recall petitions. At the recent general election several measures appeared upon the ballot which found their way there through the medium of thousands of forged signatures. The law governing the circulation of petitions and the securing, checking, and certifying of signatures thereto is entirely inadequate at the present time to safeguard the ballot, or to prevent the withholding from operation, through the medium of the referendum, statutes enacted by the legislature or the foisting upon the public of initiative measures through a similar medium.

Under the law as it exists today it is not a crime to forge the signature of an elector to any such character of petition, and the only criminal offense involved when forged petitions are sworn to by the person supposed to have circulated such petitions and obtained such signatures is the crime of perjury. The indiscriminate circulation of petitions, whether initiative, referendum, or recall, should not be permitted. It would appear most proper that such petitions, when circulated, should be in the hands of responsible parties and their circulation guarded by officials charged with the proper performance of such duty.

Inasmuch as the names on all such petitions, when filed with the registrar of voters or county clerk, must be inspected and checked as against the affidavits of registration on file in the offices of those officials, and the time within which such checking and certifying is to be done is limited and is done at a considerable expense to the county in which the petition is circulated, it would seem appropriate that those persons who desire to have such petition circulated should prepare and file the same with the registrar of voters or county clerk, and that such officer be authorized to appoint persons known to him to be reputable to act as the circulators of such petition. Before entering upon their work the persons so appointed should be required to subscribe an oath for the proper performance of such duties and such oath should be filed with the officer making such appointment. The expense of securing signatures to such petitions should be paid by the parties desiring to have the petition circulated, and an amount sufficient to cover the expense of such work should be paid by such parties to the registrar of voters or county clerk before such officers could be required to appoint persons to circulate such petition. The amount required to be deposited could be ascertained by determining the number of names required upon such petition, and provision could be made for the return of any excess deposited. In this way, the cost of circulating, checking, and certifying such petitions need not be more, and probably would be less, than the amount expended under the present system. Through this method, official responsibility would safeguard the verity of petitions and the genuineness of signatures. In addition to this, the statutes should be so amended that the forgery of names to petitions of this character would be penalized in a manner similar to other forgeries.

In connection with such petitions we have also noted that the language employed in the petitions themselves are dissimilar in various sections of the same petition, thus, as a matter of fact, constituting different petitions by reason of the different language, yet ultimately all of such dissimilarly worded sections after circulation were attached together and assumed to constitute a petition identically similar in all of its sections. This could be remedied by having all petitions first referred to, and checked and certified by, the Legislative Bureau before they are filed with the respective registrars of voters or county clerks for purposes of circulation.
